Dear Dr. von Volckamer:

I am truely greatful for your letter of 16 Dec 1982 and the information it contained. Even more exciting is your willingness to help mewith additional research into my family history in the Wallerstein/Hainsfarth/Oettingen area.

You should first know that Gala & Mendel Riess are my great-great-great grandparents and anything you can find out about them (birth, marriage, death,brothers, sisters, parents, etc.) would be welcome. Any documentation of events would be particularly benificial. I trust Mr. Friedlander's visit with you will seek some of the same information. If you wish, you can give him the data since we are known to each other and he has my address from a previous correspondence.

As for the Goldschmidt family of Oettingen (which Mr Friedlander is not part of), I have the following. My great-great grand-parents Abraham Goldschmidt and Esther ? were married in Oettingen on 4 March 1828; that Esther died on 24 July 1878 and Abraham died on 10 Oct 1888. Abraham was a woolen merchant in Oettingen. They had 8 sons & 2 daughters as listed.

Peppi (daughter)	born	25 Feb 1829	married	10 Jun 1851	Bernhard Goldschmidt
Bernhard	"	20 Nov 1832	"	23 Mar 1863	Emma
Amson	"	9 Feb 1834	"	10 Nov 1862	Judith
Solomon	"	20 Jun 1835	"	8 Jan 1868	Lina
Joseph	"	1 Feb 1837	"	19 Dec 1871	Jette
Isaac	"	17 Aug 1839	"	10 Oct 1870	Sophie
Louis	"	11 Sep 1840	"	1 May 1870	Hannah
Fanny(daughter)	"	29 Apr 1842	"	2 Jun 1863	Jacques Didisheim
Max	"	14 Aug 1843	"	?	?
Philip	"	30 Mar 1845	"	16 May 1882	?

One son (unknown) and Fanny stayed in Europe. The other 7sons and Peppi all emigrated to America. Louis who migrated to America in 1866 married Gala and Mendel Riess' granddaughter Hannah Fuller..Louis and Hannah are my great grandparents.

JEWISH CEMETERY OETTINGEN
GRAVE LIST

(not including children's graves)

Compiled in 2005 + 2006 by Rolf Hofmann (harburgproject@aol.com)
in cooperation with Dr Petra Ostenrieder (Oettingen)

HOW THIS LIST CAME INTO BEING

This grave list began as a joint initiative between the Oettingen Local Museum and Harburg Project in memory of the Jewish community that once existed in Oettingen for hundreds of years. We tried hard to complete the family history background of every deceased, but we were not successful in some cases, sometimes just because of legal restrictions, as registrars in Germany are only allowed to reveal vital records to direct descendants of the deceased.

For the first time in their long history, the Jewish community of Oettingen started their own cemetery in 1850. Before then and going back beyond the "Thirty Years War" (1618-1648), the central burial site for the historic County of Oettingen was in Wallerstein, alongside the cemetery of Aufhausen (serving Aufhausen, Baldern and Lauchheim) and the cemetery of Harburg since 1671 (serving Harburg, Moenchsdeggingen and Ederheim). It was only during the 19th century that all other Jewish communities of this area got their own burial grounds (except Ederheim and Kleinerdlingen) and finally Noerdlingen as well, whose Jewish community was newly founded in 1870 (after their expulsion in 1507), and burials at their cemetery started in 1878.

An essential and invaluable source for this grave list has been Mario Jacoby's photo documentation of 1988, at which time he took pictures of all the gravestones of the Oettingen Jewish cemetery. Over the last 17 years the legibility of inscriptions has drastically declined, and some inscriptions have even vanished completely. As most grave monuments are made of sandstone, their surface condition deteriorates rapidly, caused by the influence of wind, frost and sun. In one or two decades the photos of Mario Jacoby will be the only remaining reliable source, leaving an impression of the beauty of the original inscriptions that by that time will have become completely illegible. This also concerns the ivory covered head stones, their inscriptions can no longer be identified.

The graves in this list were numbered by Mario Jacoby in a completely new order (= photo number), as only a few of the original numbers (= grave number) still exist on the gravestones, not enough for establishing a complete number system. Before 1813 only a few Jewish families had last names. For better identification, we chose to add last names to parents even in cases where it were only the children who adopted their own last names in 1813.

Most Jews in Oettingen during the 19th century had two "given" names, one that was given traditionally to them when born, another that was chosen by themselves as a Christianized version (i.e. Bela became Babette). The grave list generally shows the personally chosen (Christianized) version, whereas most graves show the traditional version.

This grave list was compiled very carefully; however errors are inevitable due to the variety of sources with which we had to deal. Nonetheless, this list remains a valuable tool for locating those who have died and getting a feeling of how they once lived. This list is also a good tool for those who want to start researching their own family history.

The 19th century gravestones usually have an extensive Hebrew inscription facing east and a short German inscription facing west. A few gravestones bare poetic inscriptions in German rhyme, which are provided in this grave list in their original German verses in blue. These verses would be difficult to translate suitably into English.

The first three noted gravestones were only recently detected by chance, hidden under ground outside the grave area (but still within the cemetery). Their original position is unknown, so they are marked by the letter "X".

Grateful acknowledgements go to Dr Petra Ostenrieder (Local Museum Oettingen), Dr Joachim Hahn (Alemannia Judaica) and various other archivists who provided essential and valuable help for this project.

He couldn't have been married in Prague, because he had not been accepted there as a citizen. The bride was Judith Hauk, the marriage ceremony was performed by a freewheeling shochet and school teacher, who moved from village to village offering his services for little money. As Heium Springer around 1820 was expelled from Bohemia together with his wife and ten year old son Moses, he tried to settle in Oettingen, where he was born. But the magistrate was not willing to recognize his marriage, which was only based on Jewish religious tradition. Wife and son were forced to return to Prague in 1824. Heium Springer stayed in Oettingen, but he also stayed unmarried for the rest of his life.

grave text (translated from Hebrew into German by Mario + Ruthy Jacoby):

Hier ist verborgen der Mann, der koschere and der gerade, vom Stamm der Gerechten, er ehrte den Namen Gottes er liess aus seiner Kehle vernehmen, im Amt des Vorbeters der Gemeinde, zu den Gebeten der "furchtsamen Tage" (= von Neujahr Rosh Hashana bis Versoehnungstag Jom Kippur)
... in seiner Funktion als Schofarblaeser ertoenen zu lassen ...
... am Tag des Gedenkens (Neujahr), es ist der ehrbare Herr David Leib, Sohn des ehrbaren Michael Badmann er verstarb in gutem Namen am Mittwoch, 3. Tag des Monats Ab im Jahr 628 der kleinen Zaehlung (22 Jul 1868 nach christlicher = gregorianischer Zeitrechnung)
er schritt voran, um sich vor seinem Schoepfer zu beugen das ganze Haus sammelte sich im Glauben in der Tradition der Vaeter
... auf Erden, all seine Tage mit seiner Ehrfurcht
... seine Nachkommen darueber in ihren Herzen

Und wie die Liebe rein
Ruhst nun im Totenkleide
Mein Kind, fromm and rein
Doch ist die Huelle auch entschwunden
Dein Geist bleibt stets mit uns verbunden
Den teuren Vater, Deine Brueder in jener Welt siehst Du sie wieder

Im Grab ist Ruh, im Leben Schmerz
Drum ruhe sanft Du teures Herz"
